SIR KNIGHTS:

ST. LOUIS, MO., June 15th, 1895.

St. Louis Commandery, No. 1, has perfected arrangements for a special train to convey her members and guests from St. Louis to Boston, on their pilgrimage to the Twenty-sixth Triennial Conclave of the Grand Encampment of Knights Templar of the United States, to be held in the latter city, commencing August 27th, next. This train will be made up of vestibuled sleeping cars of the most improved modern design, embracing all known conveniences for the comfort of passengers.

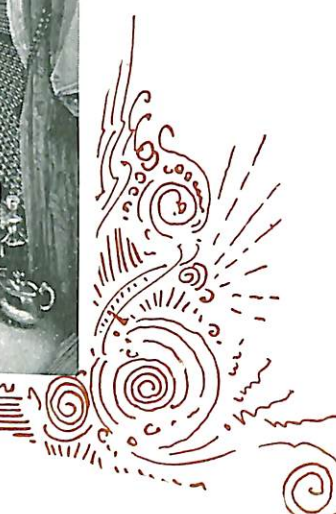

The route selected is via the Wabash Line, St. Louis to Detroit; the Michigan Central, Detroit to Niagara Falls; the West Shore Railroad, Niagara Falls to Rotterdam Junction, and the Fitchburg Railroad, Rotterdam Junction to Boston. This route is not only the most direct, insuring a quick and agreeable trip, but it passes through a section of country famous for its scenic and historic interest.

The expense of the pilgrimage, as far as the committee can arrange, will be as follows: Going and returning by the same route, $42.00; returning via Fall River Line steamers to New York, and privilege of making the trip New York to Albany via Hudson River steamer, thence home by rail, $48.00. Sir Knights may return by any other route if they prefer, but must make their desire known at the time they purchase tickets. Each of the above named amounts includes railroad ticket going and returning, sleeping car berth going, meals en route, transfer of baggage, conveyances for the ladies from depot to our headquarters, and four days at the hotel in Boston on the European plan. Our hotel, the Bellevue, is first class and in the heart of the city, on Beacon and Tremont Streets. The Hotel Committee, believing that it would be more advantageous to all, secured the hotel on the European plan. Meals, however, may be had in the fine cafe in the hotel, while first class restaurants are plenty and convenient to our headquarters.

Sir Knights will have the choice of many very pleasant side trips out of Boston and New York, at a nominal expense. We have engaged the celebrated Carthage (Mo.) Light Guard Band of twenty-three pieces to accompany us from St. Louis. Our special train will be under the personal charge of Eminent Sir E. H. Coffin, of the Wabash Railroad, who will do everything possible for the comfort and convenience of the pilgrims.

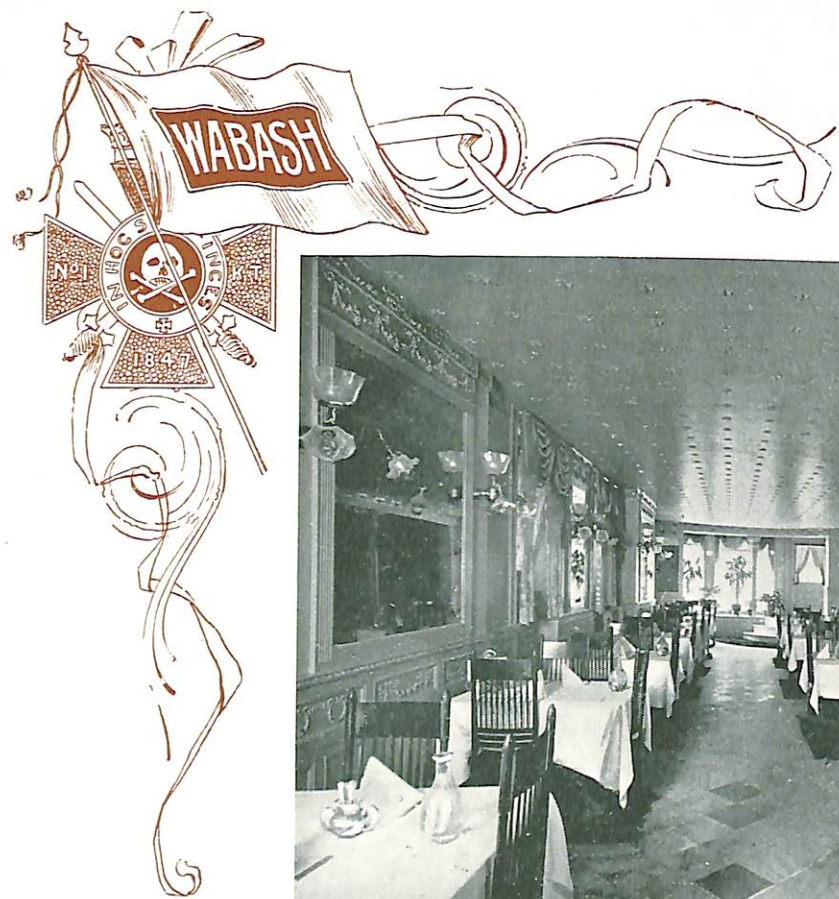

We hope the Sir Knights of St. Louis Commandery and of her guests, Ivanhoe, No. 8, and Baldwin, No. 50, will make special effort to join in this pilgrimage. It is a rare opportunity to enjoy a delightful trip at a very reasonable expense, and we will do all within our power to make it agreeable and pleasant.

Courteously,

JAMES A. HARRIS, Eminent Commander.
LEROY B. VALLIANT, Generalissimo.
W. H. HOFMEISTER, Captain General.

ITINERARY . . .

OUR special train of vestibuled sleeping cars will leave the St. Louis Union Station about 5.00 p. m. on Saturday, August 24th. It will cross the Merchants Bridge and be speeding along through the fertile farms of Southern Illinois by sundown. The distance of nearly 500 miles to Detroit is covered during the night, the perfect roadbed of the Wabash permitting this fast run to be made with ease and comfort. Breakfast will be ready upon the arrival of the train at Detroit, where a short stop will enable the pilgrims to see something of the beautiful City of the Straits. Here the train is transferred bodily across the charming Detroit River, whose sparkling green waters and picturesque banks have gained for it the title of the loveliest river in the world. Arrived on the eastern shore the journey is resumed over the Michigan Central, popularly known as the Niagara Falls Route, and after a quick run through the most interesting section of Southern Canada, the great cataract is reached. A stop of three hours is made at the Falls, affording ample opportunity to view the wonders of Niagara from every standpoint. We would suggest the following as the best program to follow during the brief stay at Niagara: First cross the bridge over the rapids above the American Fall, and walking through the shaded aisles of Goat Island, to the right, go out on the cliff overlooking the American and Luna Falls and the river gorge to the northward. After a brief visit to Luna Island, at the foot of the stairway, return and follow the pathway along the edge of the cliff until you look out upon the deeply indented curve of the great Horseshoe Fall, backed by the high bluffs on the Canadian side, where the Michigan Central trains stop, at Falls View. Follow the pathway by the river to the bridge leading over to the Three Sisters Islands, from the last of which a magnificent view of the rapids is obtained. Coming back to Goat Island, the circuit of the island may be made to the right, or one can follow the direct road through the woods to the bridge of entrance.

Then visit the State Reservation for the magnificent general view from Prospect Point at the brink of the cataract, and take the inclined railway to the foot of the American Fall. It is from this point that you will first begin to appreciate the height of the fall and immensity of the flood.

At the dock here, if time permits, you should take the staunch little "Maid of the Mist" for the exhilarating trip over the boiling waters, passing the front of the American Fall and Goat Island up into the very spray of the Horseshoe Fall, returning after a stop on the Canada side to the starting point. Returning again by the inclined railway, it is but a minute's walk to the great steel observation tower, from the summit of which a very extensive and beautiful view is obtained. The electric cars will take you in a few minutes to the Whirlpool Rapids just below the Cantaliver and Suspension bridges, where you descend the cliff to the water's edge by a modern elevator. At no other point, probably, can you obtain such an appreciation of the power of water as here, where the river is, as it were, set upon edge, being confined within a narrow channel with a depth of nearly two hundred feet. All this can be done, by one who understands how to economize time, during the three hours stay.

IROQUOIS HOTEL, BUFFALO, N. Y.

The train will leave Niagara Falls promptly at 3.30 p. m., and proceed to Buffalo, where arrangements for dinner have been made at the Iroquois Hotel, the most elegant and popular hostelry of that flourishing city. Leaving Buffalo in the evening, the berths are soon made up and the trip through New York and Eastern Massachusetts made while the pilgrims are sleeping. During the following morning the train approaches its destination, the modern Athens. Breakfast will be had at Greenfield, Mass., about 7.00 a. m. Of the approach to Boston, Bayard Taylor said it was "almost the only picturesque city view that we have on the Atlantic Coast," forming "an imposing and truly attractive picture." At the superb Union Station the train is abandoned, carriages are found in waiting for the ladies of the party, and after a short ride everyone is comfortably ensconced in his or her quarters in the elegant Hotel Bellevue.

THE PROGRAM WHILE IN BOSTON.

While the program for the entertainment of the pilgrims during their stay in Boston is necessarily informal, we are assured that every arrangement which promises to interest the visitor has been made by the Boston Triennial Committee. The grand parade takes place Tuesday, August 27th. Other days will be devoted to sight-seeing, fraternal visits, excursions, etc. Visits will be made to Bunker Hill, the Old South Church, the Charleston Navy Yard, Harvard University, and down the bay to Nahant, Nantasket and other points within easy reach of the city. The homeward trip may be made by the direct all-rail route, or by the Fall River and Hudson River steamers, as described on page 3.

GENERAL INFORMATION.

It will be seen that almost the entire distance between St. Louis and Boston will be covered during two nights and one day, the object being to make the pilgrimage easy and enjoyable, as well as rapid, utilizing all the daylight possible at the most attractive points.

This route is through many interesting sections of country—too numerous to detail here—and carries many of our people to or near their old homes in the East.

The Imperial Council of the Order of the Mystic Shrine meets at Nantasket Beach, twenty-five minutes from Boston, the week following the Triennial Conclave.
